DESCRIPTION:
This presentation will discuss Prolonged Grief Disorder (PGD) and how it is different from usual continuing grief as well as Major Depression and PTSD. Derailers of the usual continuing grief process and risk factors associated with PGD, particularly those inherent in the COVID-19 pandemic, will also be discussed. We will describe the treatment model for Prolonged Grief Disorder Therapy (PGDT) which is focused on adapting to loss as a re-learning process and consists of psychoeducation and experiential learning activities focusing on six (6) Healing Milestones. We will explain how these milestones promote acceptance of the reality of the loss and restore the capacity for well-being and provide clinical examples of the therapy.

EXPERT PANELISTS:
M. Katherine Shear, MD, is the Marion E. Kenworthy Professor of Psychiatry and the founding Director of the Center for Prolonged Grief at Columbia University School of Social Work. Dr. Shear is a clinical researcher who first worked in anxiety and depression. For the past 25 years, she has focused on understanding and treating people who experience persistent, intense grief, which is now an official diagnosis called Prolonged Grief Disorder in the ICD-11 and DSM-5. She developed and tested Complicated Grief Therapy/Prolonged Grief Disorder Therapy; a short-term, strength-based intervention that helps foster adaptation to loss, and confirmed its efficacy in three large NIMH-funded studies. Dr. Shear is widely recognized for her work in bereavement, including both research and clinical awards from the Association for Death Education and Counseling and invited authorship of articles for Uptodate and the New England Journal of Medicine. Her work includes more than 330 peer-reviewed publications. She’s developed several widely used assessment instruments and a PGDT instruction manual.

Sonya Lott, PhD, is a Prolonged Grief Disorder Specialist. She earned her PhD in Counseling Psychology from Temple University and is a licensed psychologist. Dr. Lott has worked in a variety of clinical settings and became a tenured associate professor of psychology for at Community College of Philadelphia (CCP), where she taught Developmental Psychology-emphasizing Death, Dying, and Bereavement. Dr. Lott has completed training in Prolonged Grief Disorder Therapy (PGDT), formerly referred to as Complicated Grief Therapy (CGT) from the Center for Prolonged Grief at Columbia University's School of Social Work. She is also a certified brainspotting practitioner. Brainspotting, a body-based trauma therapy (with similarities to EMDR), is another effective intervention for grief and loss-related concerns. In addition to her private practice, Dr. Lott is the founder and CEO of CEMPSYCH, LLC, a company which offers continuing education in multicultural psychology to licensed mental health professionals.
